

Cost Engineering Professional Services

In cost engineering, people are your most valuable assets. Their knowledge and experience define the success of your projects. However, finding the cost engineer to match your requirements is a huge challenge these days. At Cost Engineering we understand this more than anyone. In Cost Engineering Professional Services our thirty years of cost engineering experience will help you to meet your staffing needs. Our experience in running cost engineering for projects in all types of industries all over the world is unique. And now we use that experience to match professionals to the needs of your organization.

“ In cost engineering, people are your most valuable assets! ”

Finding the experts

Many organizations have seen valuable cost engineering expertise leave their project teams over the past years. Experienced cost engineers have made choices to pursue new challenges. This leaves organizations with a shortage of costing experience that directly influences the profitability of their projects. This is the biggest challenge towards profitable projects that organizations are facing today.

100% match

Every organization and every project is unique. That is why Professional Services offers a number of solutions to match your specific needs. Your choice starts with the type of expertise you are looking for. Professional Services can supply you with anyone from a senior estimator to dedicated cost controllers. Whether you are looking for a professional with years of experience or juniors that have just entered the field, The Professional Services community has both. And whether you want them for a couple of weeks or add them to your staff, it is all possible with our Professional Services. It is our target to match your needs for the full 100 percent.

Added value

The best match is the professional that completely fits your requirements. Cost Engineering is in a unique position to help you find the right person. Our experienced cost engineers can make a thorough assessment of the expertise that is needed for your project. LT People – our in-house HR affiliate – is very experienced in recruiting and matching the organization and its culture to our professionals.

And if the position requires it, we can offer a complete educational program through the Cost Engineering Academy to make sure your professional receives complementary training on the job.

Young Professionals

Cost Engineering also offers a unique Young Professionals concept. All our Young Professionals are educated and supported to become a certified cost engineer. Our Young Professionals are ambitious engineers that have expressed their interest in the field of cost engineering. They will immediately start within your company while also receiving training from experienced professionals. The Certified Cost Technician course at our Cost Engineering Academy is fully equipped for this purpose. Young Professionals are a unique chance to safeguard the knowledge that is present within your cost engineering team and to transfer it to your future top cost engineers. Over the past years the Young Professionals program has shown its value at a number of our key customers.

Successful

At Cost Engineering we believe in working together. That is why our main aim is to help you make your organization successful by placing the right professionals at the right position. Our excellent track record shows that many of our clients have benefited from our approach. If you are interested in what we can contribute to your organization, please contact us today and let us show you the value of Cost Engineering Professional Services.

Cost Engineering Professional Services